DIGEST OF THE HISTORY
OF THE
SECOND COMPANY OF
GOVERNOR'S FOOT GUARD OF CONNECTICUT.

THE first meeting for the organization of the Second Company of the Governor's Foot Guard was held in New Haven, Connecticut, on the evening of December 28th, 1774, as the first entry in the Company's Record Book shows, viz.:

“ NEW HAVEN, December 28th, 1774.

As we, the subscribers, are desirous to encourage the Military Art in the town of New Haven, and in order to have a well-disciplined Company in said town, have agreed with ~~Colonel~~ Captain ^{Major} Thomson. to teach us the military exercise, for the consideration of three pounds lawful money per month, till such time as we shall think ourselves expert therein. We then propose to form ourselves into a Company, choose officers, and agree upon some uniform dress, such as a red coat, white vest, white breeches and stockings, black half leggins, or any other dress that may then be thought proper. We also agree that we will endeavor to furnish ourselves with guns and bayonets, as near uniform as possible, and other accoutrements as may then be thought necessary. (But no person shall be obliged to equip himself as above, by signing this agreement, if he desires dismission before he signs other articles.) This agreement only obliges every signor to pay his proportional part of the expense of instructors, etc.

APPLICATION FOR CHARTER.

The following is a true copy of the original manuscript which was presented to the General Assembly, by the Hon. Pierpont Edwards, as Company agent, the day after it was by them accepted.

"To the Honorable General Assembly of the Colony of Connecticut now sitting at New Haven, in New Haven County: The memorial of us, the subscribers, inhabitants of said New Haven, many of us independent of any military Company, humbly sheweth, that your memorialists, anxious for the safety of our country and desirous of contributing all in their power to the support of our just rights and liberties, have formed themselves into a military Company, have hired a person to instruct them in the military art, which they are daily practicing, and have been at much expense in providing a uniform, dress, etc. Your memorialists, therefore, humbly pray your honors to constitute them a distinct military Company, by the name of the Governor's Second Company of Guards, with power to choose their proper officers, to be commissioned by your honors, and that they may be under the same regulations and enjoy the same privileges and exemptions as the military Company in Hartford, called the Governor's Guards, or under such regulations as your honors shall seem meet, and your memorialists as in duty bound, shall ever pray.

The same day on which the memorial was referred to the Assembly it was made special business and the following charter granted:—

“At the General Assembly of the Governor and Company of the Colony of Connecticut, holden at New Haven (by special order of the Governor of said Colony) on the second day of March, A. D. 1775.

Upon the memorial of Hezekiah Sabins, Jr., and others, living within the limits of the town of New Haven, showing that they have formed themselves into a military company, and have with great pains and expense endeavored to advance military skill and exercise, and praying that they may be made a distinct military company by the name of the Second Company of the Governor’s Guards, as per memorial on file.

“Resolved, By this Assembly that the memorialists be and are hereby constituted a distinct military company, by the name of the Second Company of Governor’s Guards, consisting of sixty-four in number, rank and file, to attend upon and guard the Governor and General Assembly, at all times as occasion shall require, equipped with proper arms and uniformly dressed, with power under the direction of the field officer, to elect and choose their own officers, viz., Captain, Lieutenant, and Ensign, and other subordinate officers that shall be necessary, and that the chief officer in said Company shall have power in case of death, dismission, or removal of any of said Company, to enlist, receive, and enroll others in the room of those so dismissed or removed, provided the number of men in the several companies in the town of New Haven, be not thereby reduced below the number by law established; and said Company shall be subject to the general law as to days and times of their training and mustering, and are hereby exempted from being called upon and from doing any military duty in any other company. And the Colonel of the Second Regiment of militia in this Colony, shall cause them to be duly warned, and lead them to the choice of the Captain, Lieutenant, and Ensign, etc., and that the commission officers of said Company upon application by them made and sufficient reason shown, provided nevertheless, that the person is dismissed if liable to train before his enlistment into said company, be still liable to train according to the general law of this Colony; and that said Second Company of Guards shall have power by their major vote to nominate and appoint days and times of meeting for training and military exercise, over and above the days and times already limited and appointed by law for that purpose, and to affix and set fines and penalties on such soldiers as shall neglect to attend at such days and times of training and exercise, and the same by warrant from the commission officers of said company to levy and collect; provided such fines and penalties do not exceed the sums by law inflicted for the like offences in other militia companies in this Colony.

Monday, April 3d, 1775, the following vote passed:

Voted, "That the Norfolk plan of exercise be taught this Company."

THE BATTLE OF LEXINGTON.

WHEN the news of the battle of Lexington reached New Haven, the Guards were immediately assembled, when some fifty voted to march to Boston to the assistance of their country. Most of the Company who had volunteered their services subscribed to the following agreement and proclamation, WHICH IS THE FIRST DECLARATION OF ANY BODY OF CITIZENS OR OF ANY MILITARY COMPANY IN THIS COUNTRY OF ARMED RESISTANCE TO THE AUTHORITY OF THE ENGLISH GOVERNMENT.

On the 22d day of April, 1775, and before starting for Cambridge they were formed on the lower Green, and after being addressed by the Rev. Jonathan Edwards, they took up their line of march.

AGREEMENT AND PROCLAMATION.

“To all Christian people believing in and relying on that God to whom our enemies have at last forced us to appeal.

“Be it known that we, the subscribers, having taken up arms for the relief of our brethren and defense of their, as well as our, just rights and privileges, declare to the world that we from the heart disavow every thought of rebellion to his Majesty, as supreme head of the British empire, or of opposition to legal authority, and shall on every occasion manifest to the world by our conduct this to be our fixed principle. Driven to the last necessity, and obliged to have recourse to arms in defense of our lives and liberties; and from the suddenness of the occasion deprived of that legal authority, the dictates of which we ever with pleasure obey, find it necessary for preventing disorders, irregularities and misunderstandings, in the course of our march and service, solemnly agree, to and with each other, on the following regulations and orders, binding ourselves by all that is dear and sacred, carefully and constantly to observe and keep them.

“In the first place we will conduct ourselves decently and inoffensively as we march, both to our countrymen and one another, paying that regard to the advice, admonition and reproof of our officers, which their station justly entitles them to expect; ever considering the dignity of our own character and that we are not mercenaries, whose views extend no further than pay and plunder, whose principles are such that lead to the obtaining, as agreeable, though wading through the blood of their countrymen, but men acquainted with and feeling the most generous fondness for the liberties and unalienable rights of mankind, and who are in the course of divine Providence called to the honorable service of hazarding their lives in their defense.

“Secondly, drunkenness, gaming, profaneness, and every vice of that nature shall be avoided by ourselves and discountenanced by us in others.

“Thirdly, so long as we continue in our present situation of a voluntary, independent Company (the Guards went to Cambridge in the capacity of a volunteer, independent company, and chose their officers for the occasion, being under the sanction of no legislator or delegated power save that of their own will and self-constituted freedom of action), we engage to submit on all occasions to such decisions as shall be made and given by the majority of the officers, the Captain, Lieutenants, Ensign, Sergeants, Clerk and Corporals; the Captain, or in his absence the commanding officer, to be the moderator, and have a turning or casting voice in the debates, from which all others shall from time to time issue; scorning all ignoble motives and superior to the low and slavish practice of enforcing on men their duty by blows. It is agreed that when private admonition for any offense by any of our body committed, will not reform, public shall be made, and if that should not have the effect, after proper pains taken, and the same repeated, such incorrigible person shall be turned out of the Company as totally unworthy of serving in so great and glorious a cause and be delivered over to suffer the contempt of his countrymen.

"As to particular orders, it shall from time to time, be in the power of the officers, to make and vary them as occasion may require, as to delivering out provisions, ammunition, rules and orders of marching, etc.

"The annexed order, for the present, we think pertinent and agreeable to our mind, to which, with the additions or variations that may be made by our said officers, we bind ourselves by the ties above mentioned to submit. In witness whereof we have hereunto set our hands this 24th day of April, 1775."

THE records of this Company show one thing which conflicts with all the accredited history of the early days of the Revolution, in regard to the news from Lexington reaching General Putnam while at work in the field. He, in all these histories, is represented as leaving his plow in the furrow and taking one of his horses and starting for the field of battle. Our records show that the news of the battle was received in New Haven on the twenty-first of April; that the Company was mustered a short time after and started for Cambridge; that on the Company reaching Pomfret, Conn., on their march to Boston, they were there joined by General Putnam, who accompanied them the rest of their march.

MARCH TO CAMBRIDGE.

The news of the battle of Lexington arrived at New Haven on Friday, the 21st of April, about noon, and Captain Arnold immediately called out his Company, and proposed their starting for Lexington to join the American army. About forty of them consented to accompany their commander. Being in want of ammunition, Arnold requested the town authorities to furnish the Company, which they refused to do. The next day, immediately before they started, Arnold marched his Company to the house where the selectmen were sitting, and after forming them in front of the building, sent in word that if the keys of the powder house were not delivered up to him in five minutes, he would order the Company to break it open and furnish themselves. This had the desired effect and the keys were delivered up. They stopped at Wethersfield the second night, where the inhabitants vied with each other in their attentions to them. They took the middle road through Pomfret, at which place they were joined by General Israel Putnam. On the Guards' arrival at Cambridge, they took up their quarters at a splendid mansion owned by Lieutenant Governor Oliver, who was obliged to flee on account of his attachment to the British cause. The Company was the only one on the ground complete in their uniforms and equipments, and, owing to their soldier-like appearance, were appointed to deliver the body of a British officer, who had been taken prisoner by the Americans, and had died in consequence of his wounds received at the battle of Lexington. Upon this occasion, one of the British officers appointed to receive the body from the Guards, expressed his surprise at seeing an American Company appear so well in every respect, observing that in their military movements and equipments, "they were not excelled by any of his Majesty's troops."

After remaining nearly three weeks at Cambridge, the Guards, excepting those who remained in the army, returned to New Haven. Captain Arnold had been commissioned as Colonel by the Massachusetts Committee of Safety and authorized to proceed to Ticonderoga under his suggestion. About twenty of the Company joined him upon this expedition. The records do not show the names of these men who went upon this expedition, nor their after-fate. Evidently Lieutenant Leavenworth went with his chief, as we ascertain later that in the war of the Revolution he was a Colonel upon Arnold's staff when Arnold was a Major General, commanding on the Hudson.

GENERAL WASHINGTON.

The date of their return to New Haven cannot be ascertained, but we find they did escort duty for General Washington on his arrival in New Haven on July 2d, 1775, while en route to take command of the Continental forces before Boston.

CALLED THE NEW HAVEN CADETS.

The Company went to Cambridge under the name of the New Haven Cadets, as they could not go under the name of the Second Company of the Governor's Guards because they left New Haven in opposition to the wishes of the authorities, as seen by the powder house episode when they demanded the keys of the selectmen and took ammunition in opposition to their wishes.

THAT this Company had seen hard service during the war of the Revolution, although no record of all their battles has been kept, will be seen in the following resolution of the General Assembly:

"At a General Assembly of the Governor and Company of the State of Connecticut, holden at New Haven, on the second Thursday of October, A. D., 1783.

"Upon the memorial of the Second Company of Governor's Guards, showing to this Assembly that there are a large number of stands of arms belonging to this State, now lodged in the hands of the selectmen of New Haven, and that many of the said Company by reason of the casualties of the war, and the inroads of the enemy, are destitute of arms, and that said arms would be kept as safely and in as good order if delivered over to the officers of said Company, to be by them used on public days of parade and training, praying an order of this Assembly on said selectmen for sixty-four stand of said arms as her memorial, etc.

"Resolved by this Asseimblly that the selectmen of said New Haven be, and are hereby ordered and directed to deliver over to the commissioned officers of said Company, for the use of said Company, sixty-four stand of said arms, taking their receipt therefor, to be accountable to this State."

TO show the enterprise of the citizens who composed this Company, we find on the records of the Company, that on October 6th, 1806, the Company voted to change their uniform as follows: Voted —That a former vote of this Company in reference to wearing breeches be, and is rescinded, and that white pantaloons be substituted in their stead.

This is probably the first military company in this country that changed their uniform from the old style of knee breeches and leggins to pantaloons, and which had been effected in the French army only a few years before; none of the other Continental troops had yet adopted this style, the English troops not being uniformed in this way until about 1814. The first parade of the Company in the new uniform was on the first Monday of September, 1806.

The uniform at this time, 1806, and for several years, appears to be a black leather cap, red coat with maroon facings, white vest, white pantaloons, flint-lock musket with bayonet, knapsacks, and canteens.

In 1813 the uniform was changed from white pantaloons to black or dark blue.

ON the twenty-fourth day of October, 1810, the Company met for the election of officers under the amended charter, and elected Luther Bradley, Major Commander; Henry Eld, First Lieutenant and Captain; Timothy Bishop, Second Lieutenant; Eleazer Foster, Third Lieutenant; Jared Doolittle, Fourth Lieutenant; Timothy Plant, Ensign.

That this Company were making active preparations to take part in the war of 1812, will be seen in the following vote of the Company, passed September 11th, 1812. Voted—"That the committee appointed at the last meeting to examine the knapsacks of the Company, be and are hereby empowered to procure one hundred new ones, agreeable to a sample presented, and that a tax of $1.50 be laid upon every member to defray the expense of the same. Voted—That the Company be furnished with canteens to the number of one hundred, and that Messrs. Benjamin Prime, Horace Beach, H. Parmerle, and Joel Matoon be a committee to provide the same. Voted—That the committee appointed to procure black leather stocks be empowered to provide a sufficient quantity to the Company at 25c. each." NOTE—The records contain the following descriptive note of the canteens above ordered: "These canteens, the only ones ever carried by the Guards, were made of tin, round form, the shape of wooden bottles used by farmers, with a convenient mouthpiece and capable of containing from a pint and a half to a quart. They were worn on the left side and secured by a cord, and extended over the right shoulder.

At a meeting of the Second Company Governor's Foot Guard, holden at the State House, May 17th, 1813, convened for the purpose of adopting measures for the defense of New Haven, in case of an attack by the enemy, and to complete the unfinished business of the last meeting, Major Bradley was appointed Chairman, and William Sherman, Secretary.

After a few remarks offered by Major Bradley the following resolves were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, "That we, the Second Company of the Governor's Foot Guards, in New Haven, deeming it highly important that some measures should be adopted for the safety of our city in case of a sudden attack by the enemy, severally agree to volunteer our services for its defense, and consider ourselves in honor bound upon an alarm being given, to repair with all possible speed to the place of rendezvous, and to act in as strict obedience to the command of our superior officer present, as when on parade duty.

Resolved, "That the place of rendezvous shall be the center of the lower Green.

Resolved, "That our warning signal shall be the ringing of the church bell, and the discharge of two cannon in succession."

WE find that August 21st, 1813, this Company was mustered to quell a riot on Long Wharf between the Swedish and Portuguese sailors on the one part, and the American sailors on the other, owing to the forced detention in port by the embargo laid upon American shipping at this time. The Company was mustered on New Haven Green, and marched to the head of the wharf. Stationing guards to protect their rear, they marched at a charge bayonet the whole length of the wharf, driving the Swedish and Portuguese sailors into their vessels lying alongside of the wharf. No shots were fired by the Guards, although they marched with muskets loaded with ball cartridges. That night the wharf was strongly picketed by the Guards, and the next day, no signs of the riot being renewed, they returned to their armory and were dismissed.

Again on April 9th, 1814, the Guards were hastily mustered upon the news that a British frigate, a man-of-war, brig, and tender were off Guilford and standing toward this port. The Guards remained on duty till the following morning. When all apprehension of an attack had subsided the Company returned to the State House and were dismissed.

Again on the 13th, the same squadron appeared to the west of the harbor and came to anchor. The Company were again ordered out and marched to the State House, where ten rounds of ball cartridge were distributed to each man, when the Company were again dismissed with orders to assemble at the ringing of the bells and firing of the alarm gun.

At a meeting of the Second Company Governor's Foot Guards, at Bishop's Hotel, August 25th, 1814, William B. Wallace, Moderator,

A motion was made that the Guards volunteer their services one day to assist in completing the fortification now being erected on Prospect Hill, in East Haven, when after some discussion it was, Voted—That the Second Company Governor's Foot Guards appear at their usual place of parade, with knapsacks and canteens, on Wednesday morning next at seven o'clock, and there place themselves under the direction of the committee appointed to fortify Beacon Hill in East Haven. Adjourned.

MARCH TO BEACON HILL.

Wednesday, August 30th. In conformity with the vote passed on the 25th instant, the Guards met on their parade ground at seven o'clock in the morning equipped with knapsacks and canteens, and armed with shovels, pickaxes, hoes, crowbars, etc., and after forming Company, marched with colors and music to Beacon Hill, where they diligently applied themselves upon the fortification until half-past five o'clock in the afternoon.

In the course of the afternoon his Excellency, the Governor, John Cotton Smith, visited the works. On his approach he was saluted by the music, and with three hearty cheers from the Company.

At about six o'clock the Company again formed and marched with a quick step back to the City, until arriving at the store of Lieutenant Doolittle, where they halted, partook of some refreshments, and were dismissed.

While at the Hill, after the Company had voted to return, it was unanimously

Voted—“That each member of this Company shall retain his knapsack and canteen, any previous vote to the contrary notwithstanding.”

LANDING OF THE ENEMY AT BRANFORD.

Tuesday, September 6th. Information was this morning received by express to General Howe that the enemy, in considerable numbers, were landing near Branford. The alarm was soon given by the discharge of cannon and ringing of bells, when the Guards immediately assembled at the State House, and after forming, marched to their place of rendezvous to wait for orders, where they remained until nearly night, at which time advice having come in that the enemy had withdrawn, the Guards returned to their quarters and were dismissed. The following is a list of the names of those who mustered and remained under arms during the day, in consequence of the alarm:

ON the twenty-first day of August, 1824, at seven o'clock in the morning, the Second Company of Governor's Guards were mustered for escort duty to General Lafayette, who was passing through New Haven. The Guards mustered to the number of fifty, rank and file, and did escort duty to the City's honored guest, and were dismissed at 4 p. m.

Pursuant to an order from the High Sheriff of the County of New Haven on the evening of January 12th, 1844, Major Granniss called out a detachment of the Guards, consisting of twenty men, to assist in suppressing a riot at the Medical College and save the college from being destroyed. The detachment marched to the college at ten o'clock in the evening, under Major Granniss, and succeeded in dispersing the mob. They remained on duty until ten o'clock next morning and were then dismissed. Another detachment, consisting of twenty men, under Lieutenant Blake, were on duty at the college again on the evening of the thirteenth, at eight o'clock, and remained under arms during the night, completely foiling the designs of an infuriated mob.

 Francis Mack died August 10th, 1862, at Beaufort, S. C.
 Isaac Turner died July 21st, 1863, from wounds received at Fort Wagner.

Milton L. Woodworth died July 18th, 1863, from wounds received at Morris Island.

This Company was under arms seventeen days during the draft riots of 1863. This Company, together with the battalion of the Second Regiment stationed at New Haven, were mustered on the 10th day of April, 1870, for service at Charles Island, when a party of two thousand New York roughs landed on that island to witness a prize fight. They took many prisoners who were brought back to New Haven for trial, a large number of whom were sentenced to long terms in the State prison.

REORGANIZED 1893.

ON the twenty-fifth day of July, 1893, the Company was reorganized and recruited up to its full quota. The Company had been greatly reduced in numbers, owing to the long term of enlistment prior to this time, although the laws in regard to enlistment in this Company have not been changed. The enlistments into this Company were under the old English law and were for a term of forty years, which was virtually a life enlistment, hence the slow recruiting for the Company.

The officers under the new organization were :

Benjamin E. Brown, Major.

A. M. Johnson, Captain and First Lieutenant.

Frank T. Lee, Second Lieutenant.

Henry S. Peck, Third Lieutenant.

Emil A. Gesner, Fourth Lieutenant.

Edward J. Morse, Adjutant.

About forty members of the Company under the new organization saw active service in the War of the Rebellion, a number of whom are commissioned officers.

The uniform, as adopted at this time, was dress uniform, red broad-cloth coat, blue facings, silver braid, steel buttons; white broadcloth vest; white broadcloth knee breeches; black velvet leggins; bear skin hat.

Fatigue uniform, the regulation fatigue uniform of the United States regular army; Springfield single fire, breech-loading rifle, old model, forty-five calibre, blued bayonet, nickel-plated scabbard; no knapsacks or other equipments have yet been issued to the Company.

The Governor's Guards first became enrolled with the active militia of this State in 1821, under an Act of Congress passed in the year 1792, and amended in the year 1820, when this State first passed the act of enrolling all able-bodied, white, male citizens residing in this State, between the ages of eighteen and forty-five, with certain exceptions mentioned in this act.

At this time, under the reorganization of the militia, the commanders of the various companies of the Guards were authorized to enlist men from time to time to fill their companies, from any of the battalion companies, and at the same time they were allowed to enlist musicians from any of the companies, provided the said enlistment in regard to musicians was not of any person acting as a musician in said Company. This law was amended in the revision of 1849 by restricting the enlistments so that no enlistment could be made from any military company in the State. The militia law, as revised in 1849, is the law governing the Governor's Guards, with a few changes in the revision of 1888. Most of the acts affecting the Governor's Guards have been by special laws from the year 1806 to the present time. In the year 1851, by special act of the Legislature, every officer, musician, and private of either Company of the Governor's Guards was allowed an abatement of four dollars on his taxes for each year that he was a member of such Company.

U. S. VOLUNTEERS FOR THE SPANISH WAR OF 1898.

TWO hundred and forty-one men were enlisted, and a full infantry company of one hundred and six officers and men were prepared for service and equipped at the expense of the company.

OCTOBER, 1898.

THE records of this Company show that this Company has mustered and sent men, or the Company has gone in a body, to all the wars of the United States from the opening of the Revolutionary War to the present day. They have done escort duty for all the noted men of history who have ever visited New Haven, from the time of the organization in 1775. Their escort duty commenced by escorting Major-General Putnam from his home in Pomfret, Connecticut, to Cambridge, Massachusetts, immediately after the battle of Lexington. The members of the Company who had returned from Boston and were in New Haven escorted General Washington through New Haven, July 2d, 1775, while en route to take command of the Continental forces before

Boston. They escorted General Lafayette through New Haven while on his visit to America on August 21st, 1824, besides doing escort duty for all the Governors of Connecticut both in Hartford and New Haven upon the opening of the Legislature. During the war of '61 the Company which remained in New Haven did escort duty to the remains of all the honored sons of Connecticut who died in the service of their country and whose remains were brought back to New Haven for burial, or have lain in state in the State House when New Haven was one of the capitals of the State. Among these were General Lyon, who fell in Missouri; General Mansfield, who died at Old Point Comfort; Admiral Foote; Commodore Gregory, and many others.
